Dear Dr. Chattopadhyay:

On behalf of the Columbia University Mailman School of Public Health, it is my great honor to extend this formal invitation and to welcome you as a Yusuf Hamied 2021-22 Fellow. I am delighted to reintroduce you to the faculty director of our Yusuf Hamied Fellowship program, Dr. Kavita Sivaramakrishnan, who will be in touch regarding plans for your residency with us in New York, which we hope will happen in 2022 when it is safe to travel and a better time for in-person exchanges on your research with our faculty. (Dr. Sivaramakrishnan's email is ks2890@cumc.columbia.edu). You have already heard from our colleague, Ravina Aggrawal, director of the Columbia Global Centers | Mumbai, whose team will assist you with visa and hotel arrangements when the time comes to plan your stay.

Your fellowship with us will build on terrific momentum built in the first two years of this program. It is our intention to plan your 2022 stay so that it is as productive and agreeable as possible to help you seed what we hope will be sustained research collaborations with our faculty. To achieve that efficiently, we look forward to planning a preparatory Zoom call for you with one of our faculty members who will serve as your school facilitator, and we will plan to have you present a virtual talk on your work early next year via Zoom so that our faculty can get to know your interests and plan collaborations.

I hope you will save the date of October 15 and join us online at 6pm (Mumbai time) for our annual Yusuf Hamied Distinguished lecture to be given by Dr. Vikram Patel. I am attaching the flyer so that you can register for that lecture.

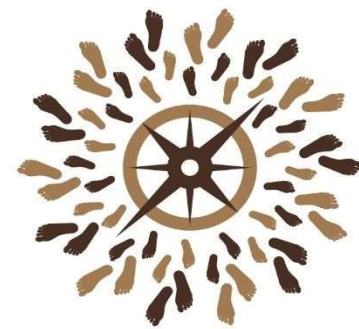

With thanks to our friend Dr. Yusuf K. Hamied for making this program possible and in anticipation of your 2022 residency with us, I send best wishes to you and welcome you into our Hamied Fellowship Program.

Sincerely Yours,

Linda P. Fried
